Seeking military combat zone near death experience stories

Through sharing, veterans can begin to heal themselves while healing each other.

Worldwide - www.lightstories.org recently launched to provide a place where any active duty or veteran of any military branch of service can submit their combat zone near death experience (NDE) story. Light Stories believes in the amazing healing power of sharing near death experiences, especially between military members who have experienced a combat zone NDE.

Unfortunately, as we are all too painfully aware, the VA system has lost track of countless vets who are in need of healing... physical, mental and spiritual. Light Stories seeks to provide a place to start healing by empowering service members to share their stories so we can compile them and make them available to the world.

Please help us spread the word about this most worthy endeavor. We strive to help so many who have already given so much. We need to let our service members know they are appreciated, understood and loved. Simply go to: www.lightstories.org to submit a combat zone NDE story.
